New York had a Glorious Saturday

Sixty-five degrees brought the city alive yesterday. 500 bands play in the city a day, but yesterday felt like double. Friends of Tompkins Square Park are planting tulips. Leaves are aplenty on trees. Aperol Spritzes are being served outdoors. Baggy blue jeans are all the way in. The new Nike Store opened.

The Pyramid website is now live. All issues are available for print. A master list of open mics in the city is available..

Art, music, playoffs. Spring-time in NYC.

PROOF is live on Broadway.

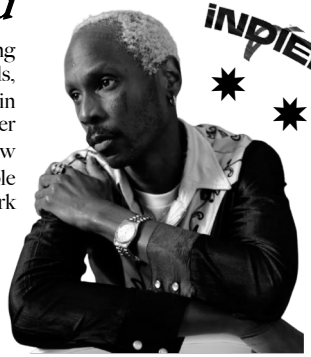
NYC's Bands Played Shows All Weekend

Shows at Irving Plaza, Baker Falls, and the Indieplaza in Rockefeller Center were just a few places where people danced in New York yesterday.



Josh Caffe was in town this weekend for a 4am set.

Open Mic Mondays.
